The prospect of building a marine Railway from lake Eris to lake Ontario on the American side, has been under agitation for the past ten years. Most of the plans hitherto suggested have contemplated a water communication. The present plan, however, contemplates the bodily transportation of vessels, with or without easge, from Lake to Lake. Of the value and possibility of such a railway a cotemporary remarks :

When we recall the gigantic enterprise which have crowned the mechanical skill of the present age, in the Thames' Tunnel the Britania Bridge, and the Niagara Sus-pension Bridge, it is evident that it lacks only study, care and engineering talent to carry through successfully the enterprise of which we speak.

And of what incalculable importance is this scheme, if carried out, to our own great Northwest! The burdens borne by us, from the inadequacy of our Eastern channels of transportation, are hardly re alized now, as they were a few years ago when a western farmer paid for a pair of hoots thirty bushels of corn, and when three bushels of wheat would pay the prime cost to the manufacturer at Lynn. The West has but one interest, namely, to encourage every facility for transportation to

The pecuniary loss cannot be less than $100,000."

The Debate in Congress over Butler The speech of Gov. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, on Tuesday, defending Butler against the charges of Brooks, was most thorough. At the close of his defence, says a special to the Cincinnati Gasette, he turned to Brooks and asked him whether he retracted or reaffirmed it.

Brooks replied that he had not been courtsonsly treated by Boutwell, and should reply to none of his questions, except in his own time and way. A general titter was heard around the floor and galleries at the pitiful evasion, and Boutwell proceeded for a few minutes in a strain of the bitterest invective against the convicted slanderer who had neither the manliness to retract, nor the courage to reaffirm his libel.

Another Rebel Congressman leaves in

The Richmond papers of Jan. 21st contain a letter from the rebel Congressman, W. A. Smith of Alabama, to his constituents, explaining his withdrawal from the rebel Congress. The reason alleged was the refusal of the House to pass a resolution against the Richmond Sentinot which had denounced the proceedings of the Committee on Foreign Relations favoring peace. He concludes as follows:

"I accordingly withdrew from the House, and have not since attended its meetings. "The article in the Scaffinel did not refer to me in person, nor to any individual for a single ewe. member of the House, but was a sweeping charge against those members of Congress who favored the proposed peace measure. What that measure was I am not at liberty to say, but as your representative I am under the despeat conviction that there are not one hundred men in the District who would object to it.

Significant Doings in Congress— Administration Congressmen lying to the Support of Butler.

A special to the Gazette says : Thaddeus Stevens' speech, following Brooks, had many goed things in it, but was hardly up to the occasion, or to his usual standard. The warm encomiums on Butler by Stevens, Ingersoll, Boutwell, Gooch and others, and the general rallying to his defense by the Administration side of the House, together with Thaddeus Ste-vens' mention of his name in connection with the Presidency, and Ingersoll's declaration that an investigation of the Fort Fisher failure would result as triumphantly provoke general laughter.
